SWARMS (SCIAMI)

LUCI D'ARTISTA, TORINO 2025-2026

Circoscrizione 8 / Grattacielo della Regione

Piemonte di Torino

Curated by Antonio Grulli

Swarms by Chiara Camoni is a site-specific intervention created on the rooftop of the Piedmont Region Skyscraper in Turin, on the 43rd floor.

The work stems from the artist's desire to introduce unexpected elements into the building's rigid verticality: disco lights and scenographic objects such as mirrored spheres which, moving and changing colour, create luminous swarms, rotating and dancing throughout the night to "the rhythm of music that cannot be heard."

The top of the skyscraper is thus populated by lights that evoke the movement of insects, perhaps fireflies, enigmatic and airborne creatures. A suspended image, accessible only through the gaze—both from near and far—it is visible for kilometres, from the southern entrance to Turin, along Corso Moncalieri, all the way to the city centre and the Turin hills.

The skyscraper is transformed into a stage where nature, evoked through light, seems to rise above humankind.
